

May 12, 2007

I am preparing to leave next week for a visit home. I had planned to send something out to notify everyone and give a little report about things here in East London. But, once again, before I could put out my little "report", I was upstaged by far more important news. Today, 12 May, at 2:00PM, Emma Williams was buried with her Lord in baptism by Quintin Le Roux, with whom she had studied. Emma lives down the street on Keam Road.

Let us all rejoice with Emma and the angels in heaven. My "reports" don't count for much compared to seeing somebody learn and obey the truth. To both Emma and Quintin, we say, "Well done good and faithful servant!"

"Then they that gladly received his word were baptized: and the same day there were added unto them about three thousand souls." (Acts 2:41) "Praising God, and having favour with all the people. And the Lord added to the church daily such as should be saved." (Acts 2:47)

Yours in Christ,

Bill Elliott
